Full description of the component can be found at Notes - This component requires an at file. I couldn't find any examples on the net, so had to make it myself - I used to modify the DefaultOpenCommand property of the components of this package. - the TRichView component is a more complete version of the ATViewer, with possible text highlighting, toolbar and such. - both components create a "view file" form, from which you can "open" and then quickly view a file

Note : I made an English version, but I think the de version is good enough for you. A: Similar to the functionality found in TAutoUpdateSaveCtrl by DDL. You can find a more complete example in my AutoUpdatePanelComponent set of components. There is an example of components to download and the manual too. A: Just came across this post. It is a popular file viewer component. It is coded by someone on CodeProject. You can download it here. There are a lot of help files provided with the component. I have used it in the past. It is certainly very handy. The author has also written a book on the subject called "Programming Windows Components".

East London & Newham was devastated this morning after vandals caused £10,000 worth of damage during a suspected acid attack in Hackney Wick. The Metropolitan Police confirmed that three suspects, aged 17, 21 and 23, were arrested on suspicion of using CS gas in the attack on Saturday night. One of the men was arrested in north London, while the other two are currently being held in custody, said a Metropolitan Police spokesman. It is believed that a white powder was thrown into a woman's face while she was on her way home from finishing a shift at a Vietnamese takeaway in Hackney Wick at around 11pm on Saturday. The suspects may have been responsible for at least one other similar acid attack in the area in the past five years. The victim is believed to have lived in the area for several years and knew the three men who attacked her. The suspects are thought to have been seen around the area before and after the attack before being arrested on Thursday night in Tottenham, about b7e8fdf5c8

ATViewer Activation

In this article I will show you how to create ATViewer component for my project which can open.txt and.rar files and provide the abilities of text and binary preview in TListView items. In order to view rar, txt and tbx files with Delphi, you will need to install a Delphi rar module - you can find it at FreeWareSource. The installation process is almost painless, and the module requires no additional modules to work. Starting in Delphi 2007 and Delphi XE, the command: [dcc32] gendef -R -W %TGUID% src\rar.dpr will create a number of units that you will need to compile into your EXE. An example of these units is: [dcc32] gendef -O2 -W %TGUID% src\rar.dpr In a prior version of Delphi, you would have had to do something like: [dcc32] dcc32 -G -W %TGUID% -R -D:LCL -D:NCR -D:DLM -D:DBX -D:COMMAND -D:STC3 -D:AFXOS -D:VCL -D:MSCANN -D:WIN -D:SAPI -D:ATL -D:DBX -D:DBExpress -D:DB -D:GR32 -D:GR32 -D:NOPCH -D:TCL -D:TOOL -D:VCL -D:VCLSM -D:JW -D:BDE -D:MMS -D:OLE -D:VERSION -D:BDE -D:INTERFACE -D:LCL -D:DCC32 -D:DB_ODBC_VER_50 -D:DB_ODBC_VER -D:VCL -D:COM -D:VERSION -D:LCL -D:LPC -D:COMM -D:SCC -D:WIN -D:WSD -D:IO -D:PROT -D:AE -D:UD -D:OLEAUT -D:RICEDLL -D:RTL -D:OLE -D:VCL -D:OVR -D:COM -D:LTCG
