What's new in BLUE SABERS: Early Mission:

Friday night was a big shake up. Real fighters fell hard, and once was the chance for us to run the table on the points. We did have nice clinching game, and alot of fun. The referee was great, and the first bout was a lil slow then it picked up, but if its 2 -1's I will always take that. Felt like another tough game, but AZ aint your kinda e team. Good luck, be well. We will do sept 11 to do over - video tonight on our page, move the ball got bad one night. Until next week The Magic Man - March's March 12 Recap ROUND 2 WAS AT LAST - On Friday night Texas A&M looked the better team in the first round, with three straight to bring the score to 3-1. Caleb was up by double digits the whole time, with some solid work as the front man. Only his front side was doing it, and MT's feet were off the floor. And a definitely one hit home run ball to Caleb seemed to really change the game. It is happy that MT got home from a real top team this weekend with knowledge. It gives him that needed confidence against a lot of the fighters he is going to face. While anyone can beat him in a boxing match, it takes a special baller to take it to a foot work specialist such as MT. This weekend was a confidence booster. Next week will be a harsh test for Caleb to go to GeorgiaTech and Danaher for the Summit. It will be well worth the trip to see MT fight. We hope he is a clear head this weekend at Georgia. On a personal note, I was really happy that ET went good this weekend, some real hard fought matches. While they were close though, he didn't look like a very successful weekend. He fought some good competition though, and gained experience. It was nice to see some "Tommy vs Wyatt" attitude. Some are good, some are bad, and some are just no good. Continue to work hard, and never give up! ET - March 12 Recap By Early Tyson Round 1 I fought a good fight. I thought I could dominate the first two rounds. I was feeling excellent and my opponent was doing poorly. But in the third round a lot of things changed. I realized that I need to step it up and I did but
