in Black-White & Color 75.4MB. | 62 pages, 8.5 x 11" | 45 min., 75.4MB. The comic book Cosmic Trip, written, drawn, edited and published by Chester G. Atkins, has developed a strong following with its tone and subject matter, as well as its uniquely beautiful art style. Despite Astral Projection & Human Evolution being two distinct and unique work-for-hire projects based on two separate ideas, Atkins was able to present them as one biographical, comic book memoir. It is a quietly moving tale with real depth and some memorable characters, all collaged together with the signature style of Atkins' multiple-colored black-white line art and simple three-color palette. This book is all about Atkins' multiple solo graphic novels about his prehistory and early history, and a book that belongs in any serious collection. There are references to Lovecraft and psychology, as well as the fate of young Chester, but this is obviously also a book about the very evolution of our species, and how one man could be the catalyst for world-changing events. World famous comic artist Chester G. Atkins (Space Adventure, Holy Mackerell!, Cosmic Trip) here writes and draws his autobiographical graphic novel about his life. First published in 1975, Cosmic Trip was Atkins' first solo work, and earned him the title of "best independent comic artist to date." Now in its second printing, with new cover art and layout! This volume includes a special epilogue, with "Final Thoughts" on Atkins' legacy. Limited to 300 numbered copies! AWARDS In this story, Atkins not only tells us his life, but also lets us share a small window into his life as a child, adolescent and young adult as he grapples with and tests his boundaries; as his friends and peers grow up, college and beyond; and as he finally faces the challenge and responsibility that comes with becoming a father himself. From the Foreword: My Life, as told to Chester G. Atkins By the time this volume was published, I was 33 and the father of an infant daughter. I had a wife but we were both tired of living in New York. The marriage had not been going well, and I felt that going somewhere else had become our only recourse. Of course, this involved "art" just as much as it involved family life. For most of us, when we choose a career path it
