What's new:

- High Touch Defences. There's more space on the pitch and a higher bar for the ball to pass. Defensively it's smart as it knows when to intercept the ball or send out its quickest player forward to steal the ball and challenge the opponent. On that note, physics are tuned to make tackles more realistic; players will be pushed in the right direction to avoid interceptions and will also react to passes.
- Personal Kicks. The dribble system (where you use your strong and weak foot to move forwards and backwards) is back, giving you more control of your movement and momentum. Similarly, through the absence of the A.I. in this new dribble control, you will be able to find more space and shoot more accurate shots.
- Focus on the Back. The core of the defensive logic has been reworked, and the A.I. now anticipates your positioning in order to attack and defend intelligently. There's even more defensive options - For example, switching between two three defenders, or changing the shape from a number 6 to a man on man.
- More Skill Control. New controls give you more options, helping you to direct or influence your skill moves. One button enables you to choose one of your skills; by holding the button you can confirm a skill move and release the button when the time is right.
- A more responsive control system makes movement decisions easier. A new control scheme focuses on short, sharp movements, which means players' decisions can be more accurately controlled, enabling the A.I. to react more quickly when you need it.
- Optimisation. If you're playing on Xbox One X, you'll notice improved visuals, especially in the power of the lighting. We've made some further optimisations to the game to ensure that it runs at its best.
