Players now feel incredibly connected to the ball and their teammates through a high-fidelity capture of real-life player movements, delivering an unprecedented game experience. Features Overview:

HyperMotion Technology. The entire game engine has been enhanced using motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. This detailed motion data is used to create real-life movements, such as distance covered, accurate ball control and moments when the players think and act faster than they actually do in real-life. Using this insight, the team also created new animations and created new on-ball behaviours for all player types. Real Player Behaviours. The amount of data they capture is even higher than before. For example, after analysing a pitch for a minute, players will learn how each other play the game and help the on-pitch actions to feel right and natural. They can use all of this data from the real-life match to instantly analyse an opponent and see the behaviours of their opponent that they need to disrupt. For example, they can determine if an opponent likes to run straight through the middle or if he prefers to cut inside. With this information, they can plan and act to disrupt the opponent when he's in the most vulnerable position. Real Touch. The new touch engine will sense players' movements and actions and react to them. The on-pitch actions feel, sound and look more realistic than before, as players will react differently to different actions and conditions in accordance with the speed at which they can perform them. Players can also do things naturally and react to situations in a realistic way with a sense of freedom. For example, you can make a tackle against a striker and have the player receive the ball and then run through you to a teammate, with you not being able to react in time. Fully Integrated Player Intelligence. The players will react and prioritise their actions and movements depending on the situation that they are presented with. Each action can affect the game situation and players will always decide based on their own knowledge, experience and actions on the pitch and not based on the "what if" the AI thought it would be. Voice Command. Players will receive live voices from their teammates, telling them what they should be doing, how they should be moving and how much they need to run in order to reach their teammate. The players will determine how they
