County Airport Jones County Airport is a public use airport in Jones County, Mississippi, United States. It is owned by the Jones County Municipal Airport Authority. This airport is included in the National Plan of Integrated Airport Systems for 2011–2015, which categorized it as a general aviation facility. History The airport was originally known as Rogers Airport, named for former county judge and member of the United States

House of Representatives Clem Rogers. In 1942, the airport had a dirt runway, and was used as a training field. In 1942, the United States Army Corps of Engineers acquired the airport. The current runway was constructed in 1946. In 1947, it was listed as a public airfield. During the 1950s and 1960s, it was a general aviation facility. In the 1980s, a number of low-lying buildings were demolished. In 1985, the airport had a 3,000 foot runway. In 2007, the county obtained a 40-year lease for the airport to the Jones County Municipal Airport Authority. In 2010, D. Ray Bass and Theresa Ann Patterson donated $750,000 for upgrades to the airport. In 2012, the FAA proposed $3,300,000 in funding to make improvements to the airport. Facilities and aircraft Jones County Airport covers an area of 44 acres (18 ha) at an elevation of 140 feet (42 m) above mean sea level. It has one runway designated 9/27 with an asphalt surface measuring 3,002 by 75 feet (914 x 23 m). For the 12-month period ending December 31, 2010, the airport had 1,469 general aviation aircraft operations, an average of 39 per month. At that time there were three aircraft based at this airport, all single-engine.
