* Mac: ` * Windows: ` # Dreamweaver _Dreamweaver_ has become very popular with web designers, in particular, those who create sites using Adobe's HTML5 coding standards. It provides the basic tools you need for web-site design, and includes support for web standards, such as CSS3 and HTML5. Dreamweaver also serves as an excellent web development tool for designing pages. You can find many tutorials on the Internet, ranging from simplified instructions to thorough, step-by-step tutorials, such as `www.websummit.org/tutorials/learning-dreamweaver.shtml` and `www.tutsplus.com/tutorials/how-to-design-with-adobe-dreamweaver/`. If you're new to web design, you may want to try a different program; however, Dreamweaver is a good choice because it's used by many web designers, and you can transfer your work to other programs, if you want to. Adobe also offers a desktop app called InDesign for creating HTML and CSS layouts. It can be used alongside Dreamweaver to design the structure of a web page, and then convert it into HTML and CSS. If you're a beginner, see the advice in Book I, Chapter 1 for learning more about web development. If you're a web designer and would like more information about HTML5 and CSS3, read the tutorials listed in this book's reference section at the end of the chapter. The full version of _Dreamweaver_ is $299.00 (2017), which is very expensive for those just starting out in web design. You can find a free version, called _Web Essentials_ (which is free for noncommercial use), on the site ` # Muse Adobe's web design software, _Muse_, is geared toward users who want to produce web pages. It has a simpler interface than Adobe Dreamweaver, including a drag-and-drop site builder. Muse is a good choice if you don't know much about web design but are fairly familiar with working with a spreadsheet. Muse has a lower price

Photoshop on Windows vs Adobe Photoshop Elements Both Photoshop and Photoshop Elements are offered as software packages that work on Windows. Photoshop is used by graphic designers, web designers, illustrators and photographers, while Photoshop Elements is used by people who want to learn to use Photoshop but don't want to buy expensive professional software. Photoshop is the most widely used image-editing software, while Photoshop Elements is more for beginners. Photoshop and Elements handle all of your basic image-editing needs, but Elements will not let you retouch images like Photoshop. You can merge and combine two or more pictures into one image, and the built-in tools will let you do this by themselves. But the programs have very different approaches to the editing process. Photoshop is all about layers and smoothing and blending, while Elements is a basic canvas-with-a-select-tool-and-brush-tool approach. Elements can work with image stacks, but Photoshop cannot. When should you learn Photoshop? Photoshop is the more powerful of the two, and if you're working with layers, the features are more versatile in Photoshop. If you're planning to make a career out of graphic design, it's good to know that Photoshop has virtually always been a necessary skill for graphic design. You can get by with Elements, but you're going to struggle. Adobe Photoshop Elements - An Overview Installation The versions of Photoshop and Elements for Windows are both available on the Adobe website. Both are available as 32-bit and 64-bit versions. The Adobe website also lists compatible versions of Photoshop and Elements for Mac OS X. Photoshop Elements is only available as a non-Pro version. To install Photoshop Elements, download the installer from the Adobe website, which is a self-extracting archive that you unzip and run. The installer will install everything you need: Support for both the 32-bit and 64-bit Windows operating systems. Acquired photos and video. This means you'll have access to all your images and videos even if you lost them. You may need to sign up for a free account. Access to the libraries and samples of other users. Pen tools allow you to create straight lines, arcs, curves, and rectangles. The Pen Tool features a rectangle as one of its modes. Alter the Crop Tool to fit an object of any size to an image's bounding box. This allows you to remove or add unwanted areas and objects from the image. The Crop Tool features a square as one of its modes. The Type Tool allows you to make any element or shape look like a specific type of font, such as Times New Roman. The letters included with Photoshop are used to create text images. You can also create and edit text in Photoshop Elements and later in a fully-featured version of Photoshop. The Crop Tool allows you to fit an image to the best possible dimensions. You can use the Crop Tool to remove unwanted areas and objects from the picture. The Spot Healing Brush is similar to the Clone Stamp. It is used to copy pixels and paste them in another location. The Spot Healing Brush appears as a box with a face in the tools panel. The Blur Tool allows you to distort the edges of an image, which adds visual interest and dimension to the image. You can blur images, such as when you apply a white mask. You can choose from many brushes and pens with countless different designs. Photoshop features brushes and pens in many different styles and sizes. You can make most types of brushes and pens for Photoshop, including images, text, logos, and designs. The Stroke feature allows you to add a special effect to a selected portion of an image. The Grab tool is useful when you want to quickly crop or enlarge the area of an image. The Grab tool is like a pair of tweezers that you drag to the part of the image you want to select. The Cloner enables you to select areas of the image and copy them into another area. The object you select must be rectangular. The clone stamp appears as a black rectangle with a face in the tools panel. The Eraser tool is a rectangle that you drag to remove a portion of an image. Use a 3D brush to add depth to a subject or object. A 3D brush is used to paint the 3D objects in Photoshop. The Masking feature enables you to choose a color or pattern to hide or show certain parts of an image. You can also blur a mask to make it transparent. The Spell Check feature helps you find misused

Female hormonal cycle induces differential regulations of male genital papilloma virus infection and virus recrudescence. It has been widely documented that gonadal hormones influence both immune responses and the susceptibility and outcome of genital human papillomavirus (HPV) infections. The aim of this study was to examine the influence of female hormonal cycle (HC) on male genital HPV infection and recrudescence. Thirty male patients with recrudescent genital HPV-related warts were included in the study. The patients were divided into two groups, A (n=15) and B (n=15), according to whether the genital lesions were in the presence of menstrual cycle or postmenopause HC, respectively. Sexually transmitted diseases, previous genital warts, and previous systemic disease were excluded in the study. The male genital lesions were evaluated for HPV infection in the study, and the clinical response to treatment with isotretinoin was followed. There were no significant differences in the HPV prevalence between the two groups. In group A, 6 (40%) of the patients had HPV infection of high risk (HR)-HPV, and in group B, 9 (60%) of the patients had HPV infection of HR-HPV. In group A, after a treatment with isotretinoin, only one of the 11 HPV lesions could not regress; in group B, 8 of 11 lesions could not regress. All male genital lesions regressed after isotretinoin treatment in both groups. However, male genital lesions regressed in group A, but not in group B, during the second treatment. Female HC can induce different biological responses to male genital HPV infection, and it should be taken into consideration in future studies.Q: MySQL query with conditions I have the following query: SELECT `id` FROM `products` WHERE `product_id` = 2 AND `online_only` = 0 AND `status` = 1; In fact it should show me only unique products, but I get duplicate rows. (I get 542 rows in the result) I tried doing the following: SELECT `id` FROM `products` WHERE `product_id` = 2 AND `online_only` = 0 AND `status` = 1 AND `id` NOT IN (SELECT `id` FROM `products` WHERE `product_id` = 2 AND `online_only` = 0 AND `status` = 1);
